ODK TO PRESENT CAMPUS MURAL TO STUDENTS

Callihan To Unveil
Painting In Union
By John Hunsaker

A mural depicting life on the University campus will be presented to the UK student body by members of Omicron Delta Kappa, men's leadership honorary, at an unveiling ceremony at 3 p.m. Wednesday in Room 206 of the Union. It was announced yesterday by Jim Wine, ODK president.

Designed and executed by John Hunsaker, a member of the fraternity and a graduate student in the art department, the mural will be unveiled by Miss Ann Callihan, assistant professor in the department. Covering almost an entire wall of the Union building room, the painting depicts a football player, a coed on her way to class, a fraternity initiation, and other familiar campus figures and institutions.

Dr. Thomas P. Cooper, acting president, has been invited to accept the mural on behalf of the University.

ROY VANCE
Newly Elected Editor of the Kentucky Law Journal.

VANCE ELECTED STUDENT EDITOR OF LAW JOURNAL

Barton, Webb,
Denham Named
To Other Posts

Roy Vance, Jr., Paducah, has been appointed editor-in-chief of the Kentucky Law Journal, student publication of the law college, it was announced yesterday by Prof. Roy Moreland, faculty editor.

Vance succeeds W. L. Matthews, Jr., third year law student from Bowling Green.

Mary Louise Barton, Palmouth, was chosen associate editor to succeed J. Granville Clark, Russellville. Glen Denham, Williamsburg, will succeed Eugene R. Webb, Lexington, as managing editor, and John H. Clarke, Jr., Maysville, will succeed Harry Roberts, Clinton, as business manager.

Other members of the editorial board will be Robert Spragens, Donald Malroy, Charles Shipley, W. R. Knuckles, Howard Trent, Jr., Joe Johnson, Jr., Robert Henry, Clarence Cornelius, and Robert Sweeney.

Appointment to the editorial staff is one of the highest honors that can be obtained in the law school. In addition to the experience it gives, the student has an opportunity to gain prestige among the practicing attorneys of the state as well as throughout the nation, according to Moreland.

YWCA CABINET TO BE INSTALLED

Services Will Be
Tonight In Union

Installation of 22 members of the YWCA cabinet will be held at 8 o'clock tonight in the Music room, with Jeanne Lancaster in charge.

Meditations will be given by Miss Doris Seward, residence secretary, and short speeches by Gladys Kilpatrick and Betty South, retiring and incoming presidents. The installation ceremony, a solo, and a prayer will complete the program.

Mrs. Ab Kirwan will be installed as new chairman of the YW advisory board by Mrs. Huntley Dupre, retiring chairman.

Women to be installed are Miss South, Jeannette Graves, Dorothy D. Vaughn, Marion Bradford, Mary Rion, Anne Crutcher, Dorothy Paul, Wilma Salmon, Mary Olive Davis, Eloise Palmore, Jeanne Lancaster, Alice Wootton, Kay Ellison, Mary Frank Wiley, Mary Garner, Mildred Murray, Carolyn Spicer, Jean Ewers, Josephine Andres, Jeannie Puckett, and Jessie Francis.

GARNER ELECTED MORTAR BOARD PRESIDENT

Leadership Group
Inducts 12 Pledges
In Sunday Rites

Mary Garner, Winchester, was elected president of Mortar Board, senior women's leadership fraternity, yesterday afternoon to succeed Billie Raymond, Lexington.

Also chosen were Lida Belle Howe, Louisville, vice-president; Dorothy Paul, Indianapolis, Ind., secretary; Lorraine Harris, Lexington, treasurer; and Louise Nisbet, Lexington, editor.

Initiation of new Mortar Board members was held at 7 a. m. Sunday in the Botanical Gardens. Those initiated were Rita Sue Lassie, West Point; Doris Reichenbach, Anhegorage; Betty South, Frankfort; Sara Triplett, Henderson; Mary LaBach, Mary Thomas Powers, and Charlotte Sale, all of Lexington; and Misses Garner, Howe, Paul, Harris, and Nisbet.

Outgoing officers, besides Miss Raymond, are Marion Valleau, secretary; Jeanne Marie McConnell, Danville, treasurer; and Frances Hannah, Shelbyville, editor.

SGA Candidates Must Petition By Thursday

Petitions of candidates for the student legislature must be in the registrar's office by 8 a. m. Thursday, May 1, Robert Allen, SGA president announced last night.

Each petition must contain the following: (1) name of candidate; (2) statement of which college and class he wishes to represent; (3) signature of 30 students in the college he wishes to represent; (4) certification that candidate has a University standing of at least 1.5.

Election of representatives will take place Wednesday, May 7.

Burrus And Patterson Qualify For Presidency; Wide-Open Voting Seen

DONIPHAN BURRUS

These two Independents will square off in the University's first party-less SGA presidential election.

RUSSELL PATTERSON

ELECTIONS SET FOR WEDNESDAY

Barrickman, Penna,
Reichenbach, Davis
Also On Ballot

In what promises to be a wide-open campaign—with no formal party organizations and no important differences in the major platforms—six candidates squared off last night for the annual Student Government association election Wednesday.

The candidates, announced yesterday by the election board are:

For president—Doniphan Burrus, arts and sciences senior, and Russell Patterson, engineering junior.

For men's vice-president—Stanley Penna, engineering junior, and Ubel Barrickman, law junior.

For women's vice-president—Doris Reichenbach, arts and sciences junior, and Mary Olive Davis, arts and sciences junior.

Since all candidates are independents, there has been no division into parties, although Burrus and Barrickman are running on a joint slate and Patterson and Penna are conducting a cooperative campaign.

The Constitutionalist party, opponent of the independents in all previous elections, has no candidates in the present one, due to a failure to submit petitions before the deadline.

Platforms Similar
Platforms released by Patterson and the Burrus-Barrickman combination yesterday show agreement on many points.

Both platforms pledge further support to the loan fund bill, a movement for a field house and swimming pool, investigation of campus housing and eating conditions, and equal distribution of appointments among Greek and Independent members.

For complete platforms of the two major candidates and list of voting places and election committees, see page 7.

Differences are these:
The Patterson platform pledges support to legislation for appointment of a SGA "supreme court" to interpret the constitution, furtherance of CAA training, cooperation with the incoming administration, installation of more telephones in the Union building.

Kampus Kernels

All committees in charge of tomorrow's Student Government Association election will meet at 8 p.m. tonight in Room 204 of the Union building for instructions. It was announced by Bob Allen, retiring SGA president.

The Independent Association will meet at 7:30 a. m. today in Room of the Union building.

The WAA tennis team will meet from 3 to 5 p.m. today on the tennis courts. Jean Ewers, manager announced yesterday.

The Poultry club will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Dairy building.

Millionaire's Daughter Brenda Looks Good In Red Pajamas

By JIM WOOLDRIDGE

Brenda Diana Duff Fraizer isn't just a glamorous socialite.

She's really a swell girl.

And lots better looking than her pictures.

At least, that's the impression we got when she gave The Kernel an interview Friday night at the home of E. W. Madden on the Winchester pike. She was Mr. Madden's guest for a few days.

We were a little nervous when she walked into the room. After all, this was the same young lady who had walked into the Main Ball Room suite of New York's Ritz-Carlton hotel a couple of years ago to greet 1,500 of the nation's most prominent social figures at her $50,000 debut.

But now she was just as natural as Jessica Gay. When she stopped and stood in front of us, we took the cue and went through introductions.

"Won't you sit down," she said calmly, moving over in front of the fireplace and taking a cigarette from the pocket of her Chinese red silk lounging pajamas.

After that, we were at ease. Even the thought that she knew everybody from Elsa Maxwell to Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt and had trust funds with assets of $4,051,000 didn't worry us. She was talking to us just like a college girl.

Trying my best professional tone, I asked her what she thought of college.

"Well, since I've never been to college, I can't say much," she answered.

I should have known better, but she didn't mind and started telling us about her education at Mrs. Hewart's in New York, at Farmington, and at Munich.

She said she went to Farmington because she thought it was the country club type. But it wasn't, she laughed, adding, and I don't know whether it meant anything or not. "Say hello to the cop if you're ever there."

"The University of Kentucky? We drove by there this morning and it's perfectly enormous. It's the biggest school I've seen."

And she wasn't being sarcastic.

She just had never seen many Universities, I guess.

"It wouldn't have done me any good to have gone to college, because I know I couldn't have graduated," she remarked after we told her what classes we were in.

About this time, John "Shipwreck" Kelly, the Kentucky football star of a few years ago who was visiting Mr. Madden with Miss Frazier, came into the room.

Mr. Kelly who made his mark in the big time with his professional football team, the Brooklyn Dodgers, last night and asked them to come was just as gracious as Miss Frazier.

He asked us a lot of questions about the University—about Miss Margie and Dr. Funkhouser and the SAE's.

We told him everything was swell and that the SAE's were still getting the left-overs and he took it fine. He asked us what the new building was that is "too close to the old gym."

We told him about the panhellic-interfraternity dance Saturday night and asked them to come but they said they were flying back to New York Saturday morning.

"Anyway, the name sounds too complicated," the socialite cracked.

As we started out we knew we'd made a mess out of the interview, but it had been fun. We had even addressed her as "Brenda" several times and she hadn't even noticed it.

When we walked toward the door, "Brenda" spotted the huge charm necklace on Mary Ann Farbach.

She took it in her hand and fondled it.

"Where did you get that all?" she asked. "Just pinch one or two from everyone?"

"Well that's not a very nice way to put it, but you're right," Miss Farbach returned. We all laughed and thanked them and they smiled and we walked out.

We got in the car and John Baughman remembered he had left his hat inside. He went back and got it and came out again all blushing, and then we drove away, talking about her blue-black hair, black eyes, her beautiful face and figure and red pajamas, but nobody said "glamour girl."

'Mothball' Will Lead Parade Opening May Day Festivities

Band, PR Unit
Will Lead Floats
To Stoll Field

When Mothball, a dapple gray horse ridden by Stoney Walton, puts his first foot forward at 2 p.m. Friday, the University's 1941 May day festivities will officially open.

Miss Walton, one of Lexington's most accomplished young equestriennes, will lead the parade, followed by the cheerleaders and the University band The Pershing Rifles unit and the Henry Clay high school band will also parade.

The May queen, Caroline Coontz, and her attendants, Peggy Denney and Peggy Shumate, will lead the float division on the SuKy display.

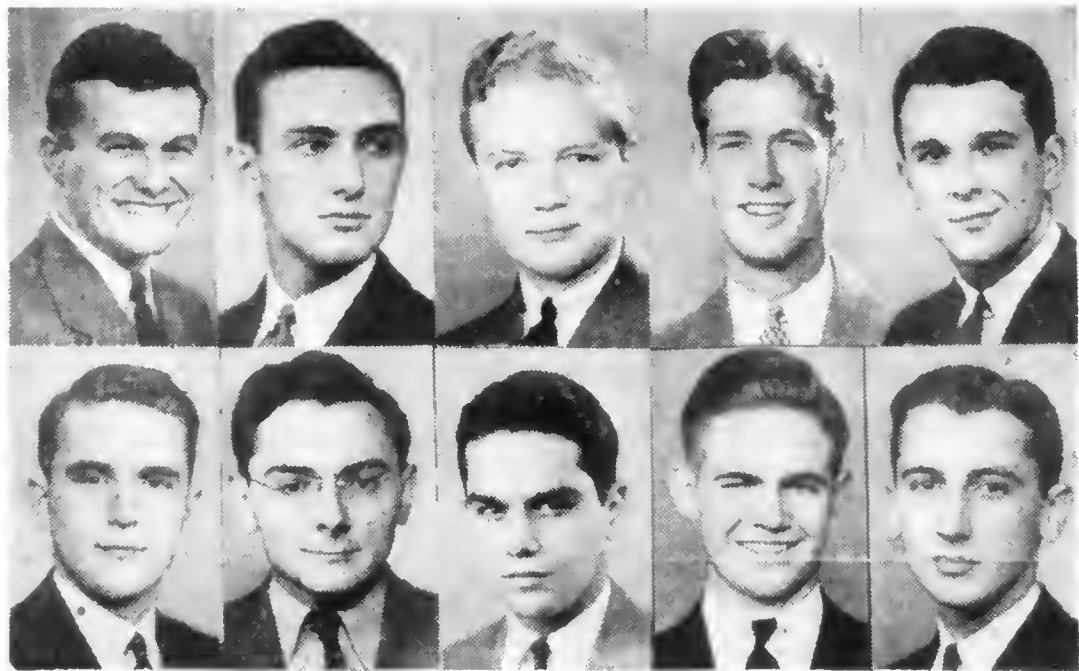

Float Entries
Other float entries, which will parade in the parade, include Honeyman, the SuKy float, and the SuKy float.

"Bacco Road," by the AGRS; and "The March of Time" which will be depicted by the KAs.

The Triangles will use "Grapes of Wrath" as their theme, while the Sigma Chi's plan to model their float after the Chinese way of life as seen in "The Good Earth." Hitler, Mussolini, the Gestapo, and the entire Italian and Grecian armies will be depicted in the Pi Kapp's representation of "The Great Dictator."

Among sororities, the Alpha Gamma plan to satirize "Topper Returns," and the Tri Delta will present "Showboat." Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs will be displayed by Delta Zeta.

The Chi Omega's will exhibit "The Thief of Baghdad," the KDs will enter "The Letter," and Zeta Tau Alpha will present "The Hound of the Baskervilles."

What Are You Going To Tell Them?

(Note: This being my final issue, I suppose I should adhere to a recent KERNEL tradition and type out several galleys of advice to the incoming editor.

However, when one considers the useful implications of the times we are living in, and realizes how rapidly values and situations are changing even now, he is reluctant to hand out advice to anyone about anything—even about so presumably simple a thing as editing a college newspaper.

And so I am writing instead something I have been intending to say for some time but never got around to.—I.M.C.)

For a person just getting out of college these are not reassuring days.

At best they are days which recall the end of school last year, when every morning meant that you got up to have a headline slap you in the face and tell you that, after a century and a half of hibernation, autocracy is back on top again and that liberal principles are dying. At worst they are days which hint of more frightful days to come.

We who are graduating in a few weeks consider these things especially in our plans for getting jobs. We are almost superstitious about them.

When someone asks, for instance, "What are you going to do when you get out of school?" we are tempted to look on him with patience and tolerance and mutter something about not having decided as yet.

That's just about all you can do: you can't very well be frank and tell the poor, blundering fool that you expect in a few months to be with a landing party in the Azores or on a cruise defending Manila or on a troop transport bound for Dakar. He'd think you were crazy if you did.

And so, if we may, we'd sort of like to ask a question: what, exactly, are we going to tell these people?

The U.S.: Republic Or Democracy?

(Note: The following is a letter to the editor recently published in THE DAILY PRINCETONIAN. While we do not necessarily agree with the point of view expressed, we do think it most original and provocative and so pass it on to our readers.)

There has been a lot of loose talk going the rounds in the columns of America's college papers and I'm getting sick and tired of it. In the first place, America is not a democracy, nor is any other country in the world. America is a republic and there is a vast difference. A democracy is a state in which the people continue to exercise their sovereignty; a republic is an infinitely better form of government for most countries of the world today. The people cannot know what the foreign situation is at any given time and even if they could it would be impossible to exercise their sovereignty wisely, since the situation is constantly changing.

If you wish to examine the utter stupidity which a democracy shows during the course of a major war, I would advise that you read Thucydides' account of Athens' conduct of the Peloponnesian War with Sparta.

Sparta was a republic at that time, and although the weaker of the two states, she won the war. Why? Because 1) she had a foreign policy, and 2) she had a consistent foreign policy. Athens, too, clearly should have had a consistent foreign policy, but she didn't. Every wind that blew changed Athenian policy.

What then are the lessons to be learned from the past? I feel that they are 1) to thank God that the U. S. is not a democracy, 2) to realize that the people of the U. S. elected their representatives last year, firmly believing that they were the best men to fulfill their duties, 3) having realized these facts clearly, not to keep putting two cents into the machine.

This is not to discount public opinion completely, but to realize that, though it can and should influence decisions, it should not be the deciding factor, ever. If it becomes that, the country will lurch along ineffectually like a drunken man, completely befuddled, aimless, changing its policies every time it hears the pleasant beckoning of that will-o'-the-wisp, the voice of the people.

The Misfortune Of Being Thomas

For several months now, on each of our infrequent trips to the library, we have found ourselves staring at the job of lipsticking which some very ordinary collegian has performed on the University's only statue of Thomas Jefferson.

The sight never fails to arouse in us a deep feeling of sorrow, for there's no doubt about it, that image of the Author of the Declaration really takes a beating.

To begin with, Thomas Jefferson, we have learned from his biographers, was an extremely shy and timid person. That fact is borne out well enough by this statue—as anyone who has ever looked at it can plainly see.

And certainly it does not contribute to one's self-respect to have his image ticked away in a dark, dreary corner of a library hallway. (At first they had it on an undignified little wagon, but happily they soon did away with that.)

But now comes the most discouraging event of them all: lipstick!

It's a wonder our present American statesmen still have the courage to go on being great after seeing what happens to their predecessors, who have climbed to fame in vain,

BEHIND IVIED WALLS BY ALUNBY E. WINER

Four years ago a winch-faced, awkward freshman walked up to menacing Ross Cheppell, the Boston Russian and editor of THE KERNEL, and said, "I want to work on the Kernel."

Mr. Cheppell, a lumbering moon-faced blonde with big things on his mind, grunted something inaudible, maybe in Russian or something. Then he roared, "WHY?"

The freshman said, "Because."

The Russian said, "Oh."

So, the freshman worked on the KERNEL.

That was the year Mr. Cheppell was sending the Kentucky band to Boston, to play at a football game or some reasonable facsimile. Well, anyway, the band never got to Boston, it was rumored that the "Ambassador of Rhythm" went to Bonessboro instead. And Ross was pretty mad over the whole thing.

That was the year George Kerlo had the nerve to pick Brooklyn or somebody to win the pennant in his "Bull Pen."

That was the year Harry Williams went to Italy the sandy to start his education, and Don add Irvine was getting disgusted with all politicians and newspapers.

That was the year Jim Caldwell was drifting about the curriculum in the commerce college.

And that freshman was me.

The years have passed quickly. The impudic drables rides of human affairs, the political explosions, the warping of reason, the decline of civilizations . . . in four years the world has become the theater of armored gladiators again and the greatest goal is to kill. All in four years? No, maybe the world has been this way always, and college, perhaps, is just the portal which leads into an understanding of this brutal reality.

The British. Are they bad? The Germans. Are they bad? The Russians. Are they bad? And we Americans. How good are we? Maybe one is no better than the other, after all. The world is just badly ill. And the symptoms? The treatment, the panacea? Who can say?

This column was supposed to be my grand finale. Well, in one way it is. That is, so far as my tow-headed editor is concerned, for after this issue he hands over the reins to Bob Ammons who, if I may put it this way, has been "entrusted" to edit THE KERNEL for the next year. Bob has requested that I stay aboard for the remainder of the semester. I have agreed, but for all official purposes, this corner of the page is about to close down.

In my brief experience as a Kernel columnist I have tumbled to all corners and have chosen my topics with a view toward variety. If, during my stay, I have injured anyone, I am sorry, for there was no malice. Any suggestions or criticisms I have made I would make again, and all opinions I have written in this column I would write again if the occasion arose. For, I sincerely believe everything I have written.

So, here's where I check out. See you in the Arm

SGA: Into Long Pants

Alumna Agrees With 'Radical' Stand Against Reorganization

To the Editor of The Kernel:

Being a religious reader of the Tuesday issue of The Kernel, I couldn't keep from responding to your editorial of the issue of April 22.

As a loyal alumna, I can but say that I agree with your so-called "radicals and reds." The University now has a new guardian, and the students, like children whose guidance has been changed, do not welcome a sudden rearranging of the principles that they have known, loved, and admired for those strikingly similar to institutions for which some members of the student body and alumni have no high regard.

The administration, instead of using the correct psychological approach to a gradual change, apparently wishes to reorganize overnight. This suddenness naturally produced a shock which gave itself voice, in strong student objections. The bomb-shell has burst and will continue to sputter as long as "undemocratic" principles are forced on them.

No young man or woman having the University of Kentucky as his alma mater will welcome the tearing down of traditions that are a part of it. They want Kentucky to progress but it is not an experimental education school; it is an institution harboring many fields of learning. The administration should bear in mind that fact. Three thousand students can become very dissatisfied and restless; these bred discontent and rebellion. Men and women old enough to attend colleges are old enough to think for themselves, a right belonging to every American.

Today University of Kentucky may stand at a turning point, forward or backward. As the students go, so goes our alma mater. If the students are not content with the present "regime," that regime cannot hope for harmony in the school as a whole. It must maintain an open mind and a broad mind. University students will continue to be university students.

Here's one alumna who admires them for voicing their opinions.

Dum-Dum Bullets

By DON LAIL

It seems as though several campus lads and lassies have endured the spring holidays without falling for the home town hero's line. From what this column can garner, most of the campus cuties remain loyal to their college chums, debunking the home town propaganda. Encouraged boys?

We are all familiar with the schedule, or running time for the races at Keeneland. We know that horses run in the daytime, but 'tis reported that some UK fillies have been seen around the track under the shadows of darkness.

The UK Independent political chiefs had quite a mess on their hands last week—just as was expected. However, all is well now. Nevertheless, Burrus, Lovett, Sublett and Barrickman and Allen? are burning the midnight oil in Jones' Box Ball alley, trying to groom some candidates for the forthcoming election.

Jack Feerabend, who claims to be extremely anxious to middle aisle it with someone, currently is being seen with Virginia Lawrence, a former.

Johnny Sutterfield, we understand, would jump at the chance to "join the chorus." Johnny seems to have taken quite a tumble for a little show fem over in Louisville.

Art Sanders and Carolyn Breeding refuse to allow the numerous campus break-ups to affect them. In fact, regularity seems to be their slogan.

Things We Wonder About:

How the Glee club's constitution was upheld during the recent visit in Louisville.

Why Prexy Allen celebrated the holidays in such a "glorious" manner.

How much competition Herrington Lake will give the classrooms when the weather warms up a bit.

How the YM and YW brought about such a beautiful friendship with Johnny Long and Betty South.

How long the McKinstry-Avent punning will last.

Why Jane Denny prefers the company of two boys rather than one on a date.

SGA At Last Becomes Of Age

CAMPUS POLITICS BY BOB AMMONS

Behind eight lines of type in last Friday's Kernel is the story of the passing of a crisis in University student government—the story of the reaching of a milestone in the history of the SGA.

In a report of Thursday night's meeting of the student legislature, this sentence appeared: "The legislature meeting last night, called to consider an appeal from the election board's action in not accepting petitions of four Constitutional candidates . . . was orderly and comparatively unheated, contrary to predictions."

The gentlemanly manner in which the meeting was conducted, referred to in this statement, and the action of most of the SGA legislature in putting the good of the SGA ahead of the good of their own parties proved that at last the Student Government Association has become of age.

SET-UP FOR SPLIT-UP

Consider the situation: Four members of the fraternities' and sororities' Constitutional party had been denied the right to be considered candidates for president and vice-president of the student body on constitutional grounds by the election board.

Since the SGA constitution does not set up any group for interpretation of the constitution—one of its glaring weaknesses—it has always been the custom of the legislature to take this function upon itself. In the present case, then, it was up to the legislature to determine whether to recognize the four Constitutionalists as candidates.

If the legislature had overruled the election board and accepted the petitions, the coming election would have been a two-party one, with the Greeks conceding a good chance to win. If the legislature had upheld the election board, the Independents would have been assured of a clean sweep of the three major offices.

It was a perfect set-up for a split-up between the two factions—a possibility long feared by SGA officials.

ALLEN THREATENS

Typical of the concern felt over the possibility of a division into definite parties was President Allen's statement before the meeting that he would refuse to sign the election returns—thus nullifying the election—if such should take place.

This concern is understandable in light of a comparison of the first year of the student government association—1939-40—and the present year, which is the second. In the first year the legislature was broken up several times by Greek-Independent animosity, and worthy legislation was occasionally retarded by this conflict. However, as the association grew older, the party lines became weaker, and legislators began to see that the SGA was more important than individual parties.

This year has been marked by an absence of factionalism and the presence of cooperation. So it should not be difficult to see why, with such a perfect opportunity for outbreak of the old evils, that those interested in student government were fearing the worst.

THE BACKGROUND

To understand what went on at the meeting and to see why it should be considered a milestone in SGA history, it is necessary to review the facts of the case.

The constitution stipulates that candidates for the offices of president and vice-president of the student body must submit a petition, to be in the registrar's office 10 days before the date set for the election. In the present case, petitions were due at 8 a. m. April 20, since the election had been set for April 30.

At that time, 14 petitions were on hand, all from Independents. The Constitutionalists had forgotten this necessary procedure.

When the Constitutionalists learned of the petition clause on April 21, four immediately turned in petitions, asking that they be accepted as valid because April 20 was a Sunday and thus a holiday.

BOARD'S EXPLANATION

In explaining their action in refusing the petitions, the election petitions were due at 8 a. m. Sunday, it would have been necessary board pointed out that, since the petitions were due at 8 a. m. Sunday, at that time in the office on Saturday. Thus, the board said, the fact that Sunday was a holiday had no bearing on the case.

It is probable that the applicants did not even have the right to appeal to the legislature on the matter because the constitution limits the right of appeal as follows: "Any aspirant has the right of appeal to the Student Legislature, at any time preceding the election. If he considers any act of the Election Board in conducting and grading the examination as unfair or prejudicial."

Since the right is granted only in the case of prejudice in the examination, it seems that the applicants did not have the right to protest the handling of petitions.

In the cause of fairness and in order to prevent bad opinion, the board generously consented to allow the candidates to appeal to the legislature.

THE PROOF

Thus came the test of the maturity of the Student Government Association and the reliability of student government in general.

Would the Greek delegates vote in favor of the appeal, in spite of the reasonable explanation given by the board—which included, in addition to student members Professors Kuiper Vandenberg and Newbury—or would they forget their party politics and refuse to twist the meaning of the constitution and misuse their power to their own advantage?

The meeting was orderly and gentlemanly, and the disorder and rowdiness which marked many of the early meetings of the new legislature was missing. The discussion was confined to the issue and—with one minor exception—was kept away from the personalities involved. It proved, above all, that student government could be efficient and sensible and honest.

Those who have been watching the Student Government Association since its inception and trying to build it into a force for good on the campus breathed a sigh of relief when the final vote tabulation was announced—15 to 8 against the appeal—and knew that student government had come into its own at last.

'King-Posture,' 'Queen-Posture' Contests Asked

To the Editor of The Kernel:

During the period of the past winter session of two semesters of loafing at the Union building, the students here at the University have had a various number of contests for women consisting of beauty queens, May queens, queen for the fall festival, and so on. It is peculiar how these contests result in a popularity contest in every case.

I admit that most of the popular queens deserve their titles but, I think, some results are somewhat erratic, considering the percentage of men who vote and the outcomes. I should think that, as spring is in the air as well as couples in the botanical garden and boys are "eying" pretty girls as they pass to and from classes, we could have a "queen-posture" contest, and have boys vote on their observations and conclusions. The girls could vote for a "king-posture."

Official observers could be designated to take suggestions from all who desire to suggest, such as members of the official group of the military science department or cadet officers, the members of the physical education department or physical education majors, or possibly the whole student body.

This type of contest could stir up some excitement on the campus, at least, where the most of our contests are not even interesting to students as a whole.

Triangle Give House Dance

The members of Triangle entertained Friday night at the chapter house with a house dance in honor of their dates.

Dan Sabo and Clayton Young had charge of the plans for the affair and the house was attractively decorated with spring flowers.

Dates of the members were Betty Verner, Mary Mozelle Crafton, Maureen Arthur, Hazel Martin, Virginia Byrnside, Mildred Pierson, Hilda Stewart, Doty Butts, Mary Gore Rodes, Betty Hunter, Nellie Mae Bach, and Bobette Lyon.

Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bleidt, Milton Van Arsdall, Lieut. and Mrs. E. B. Wallace, Welch Jones, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Price, and D. E. James.

Chapions for the party were Professor and Mrs. A. L. Chambers, Mrs. J. W. Burbridge, and Mrs. Ethel Fish.

Despite the war, England remained Canada's best customer in 1940.

Platforms, Committees, Voting Places Listed For Presidential Election, To Be Held Wednesday

Burrus-Barrickman Platform

In order to secure for all the students of this University, regardless of political affiliations, more practical benefits, more representation in regard to matters of importance concerning the University, and a greater and more powerful voice in student government as a whole, we, the undersigned, being candidates for the office of president and vice-president of the Student Government Association do set forth the following as the platform upon which we base our candidacy:

1) We advocate the election by the student legislature of a non-voting student representative to participate in the meeting of the Board of Trustees, so as to establish a sense of closer cooperation between the administration and the student body, and also to provide the board with a means of more adequately determining student opinion on various matters which arise concerning them.

2) As the state debt is gradually being reduced, we advocate the creation of a fund composed of that money which the state is paying in the form of interest on its outstanding warrants at the present, coupled with the money which the reduction of the debt is bringing into existence, to be used, along with other available funds, in constructing a field house and swimming pool here at the University. This would serve the dual purpose of providing for adequate housing of tournament crowds and also swimming facilities for a large number of students, and would, in the second place, materially raise the University's status in the athletic world.

3) We advocate and will personally do all in our individual and official capacity to have the student loan bill, which was unanimously passed by the student legislature, approved by the president of the University, and will strive to administer its provisions so as to help those for whom the bill was created.

4) As one of the undersigned introduced the optional class attendance bill, in this session of the legislature, we, if elected, will, in our official capacity, urge the administration to adopt the provisions of this bill which has been approved by the Student Legislature.

5) We are heartily in favor of the plan of student grading of boarding houses and other eating establishments which serve students, and will, if elected, cooperate with those who have conceived and have developed this idea, so as to carry out the essential purpose of benefiting the students who are concerned.

6) We pledge ourselves to represent not only the members of our own party, but ALL those who will vote in the coming election. We realize that, in this election especially, the mere fact that one party does not have an official candidate certainly does not prevent that party's members from voting. Therefore, if elected, it will be a greater duty upon us to represent more faithfully ALL students of ALL political affiliations, than if candidates of the other major party on the campus were opposing us and were defeated.

7) We wish to announce publicly that in this campaign there certainly is no personal nor political animosity on our part toward our opponents, and we are quite certain that the feeling is reciprocated so far as they are concerned. They are good men and are qualified. HOWEVER, we feel that we are a little better qualified or else we would not be running for the office!

Realizing that the ultimate decision is up to our fellow students, we assure you, the student body, that whatever the decision may be, we will abide by it cheerfully and without either bitterness or conceit.

Alpha Xis Celebrate Founders' Day
Xi chapter of Alpha Xi Delta held its Founders' Day Banquet last Saturday night at the Brown hotel in Louisville.

The theme of the banquet was "Blue Grass Alpha Xi Deltas." The tables were arranged to form a horseshoe and the speakers' table held a large horseshoe-shaped bouquet of flowers.

Mrs. Harold Bates, of Cincinnati, was guest speaker for the evening and Mary Hume was general chairman of the affair.

Awards were made to Patricia Thornton, for the highest scholastic standing; Bette Lou Smith, most outstanding pledge; and Mary Hume and Nancy Elam received recognition for making the highest marks on the fraternity examination.

Polls Will Open At 8 O'clock, To Close At 5:30

In the Student Government Association election from 8 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. tomorrow, students may vote only at the ballot box of their appropriate college.

For the first time in the history of the SGA, the presidential election will be conducted by and from each college. In the past, voting for the three top officers was done in the Union building.

The student legislature election a week from tomorrow will be administered in the same manner. It was decided.

Tomorrow, any student whose name is not in the directory must produce evidence of registration from the dean of his college. Students who changed colleges at mid-year must return to their first-enrolled college to vote.

Location of the poll in each college is as follows:

Arts and Sciences..... McVey hall
Commerce..... White hall
Education..... Training school
Graduate school..... McVey hall
Law..... Lafferty hall
Agriculture..... Agriculture building
The Engineering Student Council will manage the election in the engineering college.

Election committees:
Arts and Sciences college—Bob Ammons, Vincent Crowhus, Ben Sublette, and Jack Lovett;
Agriculture college—Clifton Hardesty, Margaret Trent, Ernest Harris, and Floy Russell;

Education college—Marvin Akers, Mattigene Palmore, Robert Piaga, Mary Agnes Penney;
Graduate school—Richard Adams and Betsy Gottron;

Law college—Roy Tooms and Paul Durbin;
Commerce College—John Long, Jim Cook, Rollins Wood, and John Price;

All members of election committees will meet at 8 p. m. tonight in Room 204 of the Union building for instructions. It was announced by Robert Allen, retiring SGA president.

ELECTIONS

women's halls, granting of more privileges to students in out-of-town football games considered "home games," change in vacation dates to suit student demand, and appointment of a "cabinet" to assist the SGA president.

Other Differences
The Burrus-Barrickman platform suggests appointment of a student to serve as a non-voting member of the Board of Trustees, and further consideration of the optional class attendance measure.

Two other candidates for men's vice-president fulfilled all the requirements, but withdrew from the election last night. These two were Scott Reed, arts and sciences sophomore, and James Williams, engineering junior.

Test Results Released
Results of tests in leadership, knowledge of the University, and parliamentary procedure, released yesterday, show Patterson, Penna, and Reichenbach with the highest combined rank in their divisions.

In the test on leadership, the scores of the candidates were Penna, 59; Patterson, 57; Davis, 56; Reichenbach, 51; Burrus, 44, and Barrickman, 44.

In knowledge of the University, Penna received the highest score, 19; Barrickman, Patterson, and Reichenbach rated 16; Burrus, 15, and Davis, 13.

On the parliamentary procedure test, the scores were as follows: Barrickman, 14; Burrus, Patterson, and Penna, 12; Reichenbach 10 and Davis 8.

AGRs Honor Parents With Sunday Dinner

The actives and pledges of Alpha Gamma Rho entertained with a luncheon at the chapter house Sunday in honor of their parents.

The house was decorated with spring flowers and lavender and gold. Mrs. Anna Smathers, housemother, and Gerald Schaffer, social chairman had charge of the arrangements for the party.

Among the parents attending were Dr. and Mrs. A. C. Overall, Mrs. H. B. Price, Mrs. William C. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Neel, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Price, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Pettus, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Blandford, Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Gayle, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Clore, Mr. and Mrs. Price C. Reed, Mr. Edwin Read, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Harris, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Yowell, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Parrish, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. J. Monroe Leer, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur M. Harney, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Renaker, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Clark, and Mr. T. F. Baker.

Schreck-Hardin Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Schreck announce the engagement of their daughter, Frances Adele, to Mr. Daniel Presley Hardin, of Mt. Sterling and Louisville, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Hardin of Mt. Sterling. The bride elect is a student at the University where she is a senior in the College of Commerce. The wedding will take place in early June.

Patterson-Penna Platform

If I am elected I promise to initiate legislation on the following issues:

To secure the final administration approval of the present loan fund bill and substantially increase the amount of money now appropriated. In the event the present bill does not win final approval, to secure the passage of a better and more inclusive loan fund bill.

To carry on the student housing and wages investigation and to give some affirmation to the results of the food investigation in both rooming houses and residence halls.

To establish a judicial body, an SGA supreme court, whose primary duty shall be that of interpreting the constitution of the SGA.

To reduce all unnecessary expenses in the SGA budget in order to allow more money for necessary student welfare projects and especially to have the budget completed shortly after the beginning of the fall semester.

To recommend an increased quota and a more elaborate curricula for the present CAA flight training program at UK.

To have students receive at all football games away from Lexington considered as home games the same privileges they receive at Lexington.

To cooperate in every way with the incoming administration in order to maintain student privileges, and to present student desires and needs forcefully and truthfully with every effort to harmonize the attitudes of the administration and students.

To present to the administration the students' wishes for a field house and swimming pool and ask their cooperation in obtaining action from the state authorities.

To ask the calendar-making body of the University to comply with the wishes of the students in regard to vacation dates.

To attempt to have provision made in budget of the women's residence halls for an added number of telephones.

To have all committee heads sit as a cabinet to the president in order that he may know more fully the needs and wishes of the students and initiate legislation to comply with such desires in accordance with the principles of good government.

Scudder To Speak In Memorial Hall

Evarts Scudder, representative of the Committee to Defend America By Aiding the Allies, will speak on "London Today" at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday in Memorial Hall.

The speaker, presented under the auspices of the Church of the Good Shepherd, has recently returned to the United States after a three-months' stay in London. His speech here is the only one scheduled in this country, Virgil Steed, chairman of arrangements, said.

Tickets costing 50 cents may be obtained at the University post office or at the door, Steed said.

Clark, Dupre

Dr. T. D. Clark and Mr. Huntley Dupre of the history department will read papers during the 34th convention of the Mississippi Valley History association convention, to be held April 24-26 at Milwaukee.

Dr. Clark, who is a member of the convention program committee will present a paper on "Hoosiers' Suckers, Red Horses, and Yankees." Dr. Dupre's subject will be "Henry Watterson's War Editorials."

Engagement Announced

Dr. and Mrs. Morris Scherago announce the engagement of their daughter, Emily Stone, to Dr. Harvey Louis Rubin, son of Mrs. Ethel Rubin of Los Angeles.

Student Relief Funds Used In Foreign Prison Classes

By MILDRED MURRAY

A group of University students have undertaken the project of raising $500, along with various other universities, for the European Student Relief committee, which will use the money to enable Allied European and Chinese students to carry on the normal academic life they would have had if the war had not intervened.

Organized as the Allied Foreign Relief committee, the students have the cooperation of the University YWCA and YMCA, who donated all proceeds from the T. Z. Koo lectures to the fund. With a little more than $100 already gained toward their goal, the committee hopes to raise $400 on "Telle, the Renegade's Daughter," an old-fashioned melodrama, which they are presenting at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow and Thursday nights in the University high school auditorium.

MANY CAPTURED

The proceeds from the play will go to the relief of more than 15,000 young men whose studies have been interrupted by the war and who are now suffering captivity, and to Chinese students who have had to make the westward trek in order to maintain colleges and universities.

According to letters Robert Davis has received from his uncle, D. A. Davis of the Geneva, Switzerland

YMCA, a return to active life is the only thing that can save the students' from despair, from neurasthenia, from moral disintegration.

In order to help the student prisoners with their "return to active life" the Student Relief committee has organized a program of activities called the "University" which will give them a sense of purpose and enable them to keep their minds busy.

CLASSES ORGANIZED

Books, study materials, games, and recreational material are furnished to the prisoners, and professors in the camps are able to organize classes for which regular university credit can be given.

Courses are offered in nearly all branches of study—law, modern and classical languages, accounting, banking, mathematics, education, and engineering.

Each 25 cents sent to China from the fund will supply food to some student for a month. Since they have been forced toward the interior, the Chinese students go to school in buildings made of mud and straw. They sit on bare benches and write on clay desks.

The proceeds gained from the play will help furnish the Chinese food and better equipment.

Student Union Flower Show Set For May 7

The second annual Student Union floral display and flower arranging contest will be held Wednesday, May 7. It was announced by Rebecca Van Meter, social director of the Union building, yesterday.

Contestants must get their flowers and vases, which will be furnished by the Union, choose their contest class, arrange the flowers, and place them on display as directed by the committee before 1 p. m. on the day of the contest, Miss Van Meter said.

Divisions of the contest include dining room arrangements for formal dinner, tea table, luncheon, bridal luncheon, and breakfast; living room arrangements for mantel and table; bedroom arrangements; nursery entries; porch or veranda displays; and summer cabin arrangements.

First, second, and third place ribbons will be awarded in each class.

In charge of arrangements are Charlotte Myers, Pat Young, Beatrice Morrelet, Taylor Bess Rollins, Margaret Stutzberger, and Jeanne Bowne.

The most tragic theater fire in history occurred at St. Petersburg, Russia, (now Leningrad) in 1836, when 700 persons perished.

Martin Publishes Book on Magazines

"Magazines for High School," an evaluation of a hundred titles by Miss Laura K. Martin, Associate Professor in the department of library science has just been released.

The special interests of young people has been made the basis of the study. One hundred and forty magazines, running the gamut from art to aviation, from current comment to radio, are appraised.

The book has been written to help the school and library in its choice of periodical material. It is one of the first studies of its kind in the field and is ranked by local librarians as a distinct contribution to library literature.

Running Wild

By JOHN CARRICO

You can look from the sunny slopes of the Pacific Coast league to the rockbound coast of the Boston Red Sox, and you'll never find a character similar to the Brooklyn Dodger fan. Even in your fondest imaginings, you could never conjure up a character quite as colorful, as utterly unconventional, or as peculiarly bawny.

The Brooklyn Dodger fan has become one of baseball's institutions as much as the Cooperstown Hall of Fame, the goober, or the beloved hot dog. His sayings are quoted and his actions are first-class baseball news.

One of the most lasting contributions that the Brooklyn fan has made to the national pastime is the cursive summation of a good day's work (probably after defeating the hated Giants). Where, but from the wilds of Flatbush, could come such a tribute to a victor, as this: "Youse guys done noble!"

The Acne Of Praise

This, to us, seems the acme of praise. The utter abandon and disregard of grammatical principles only intensifies its primitive beauty. It seems to carry the savor and spirit of Flatbush. So much does its charm impress us, that we would like to go on record as saying that the verbal laurel wreath should be adopted here, to be used only on rare and special occasions.

For instance, after Kentucky had whitewashed Tennessee 33-0 on the gridiron, the celebration could consist simply of the utterance of this solemn address: "Youse guys done noble."

The 'Brooklyn Cantata'

But to get back to the Dodger fans. The antics of the Flatbushers inspired a musical composition entitled "The Brooklyn Cantata" which was introduced over the air several weeks ago. The following is an excerpt from this classical piece:

Getcha hot dogs, get 'em while they're hot!
Some of dem wid mustard, some of dem wid not!
Getcha scoreboards and programs here—
Pass dis up to the gent in the rear . . .

Another part of the composition consists of the Serenade of the Fan to the Umpire:

Why he's the lowest rat dat ever called his own mudder out at foist!

And dat's not de woiest; he's from the Bronx!
Kill the umpire! Ber de rat in erl
Bounce a bottle off his head
Leave him on the field for dead
Kill the umpire!

If you think that Kentucky's baseball team is jittery, take a look at the New York papers for April 16. In a strictly major-league affair, Rutgers nosed out N. Y. U. 18-16. The three-hour game was very classy except for the eleven errors committed by N. Y. U. and the seven attributed to Rutgers. Breathe easier now, Moseley!

DOGGEREL DEPARTMENT

Imagine Warren Wright, Whirlaway's owner, crooning this into his beloved's ear to the tune of "Maryland, My Maryland":

Oh Whirlaway, my Whirlaway,
Where'll you be on Derby Day?
Out in front of all the crowd,
Or at the rear in a dusty cloud?
Oh Whirlaway, my Whirlaway,
Please be first on Derby day,
For Keeneland's stakes, I give not two hoots,
But on Derby day, please beat Our Boots.

Armsby Lauds Research Lab On Campus Inspection Trip

Engineers Meet, Tour Bluegrass, Elect Officers

The Wenner-Gren aeronautical research laboratory of the University was praised by H. H. Armsby of Washington, D. C., field co-ordinator for the engineering defense program of national office of education, during an inspection tour of laboratories by delegates of the southeastern section of the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education, which met Friday and Saturday of last week on the campus.

Armsby said that the laboratory was the only one of its kind in the nation although many were needed. Col. James H. Graham, dean of the engineering college now on leave of absence for special engineering work for the federal government, spoke briefly at Saturday's meeting, welcoming the engineering professors. Colonel Graham is commuting between Lexington and Washington at present.

Cooper Welcomed Delegates

More than 70 delegates from engineering colleges throughout southwestern United States were welcomed by Dr. Thomas P. Cooper, acting president of the University, at Friday's session.

Speakers Friday included Dean Blake K. Van Leer of North Carolina State college, Dr. Harold Taylor of the University of Alabama, and Prof. W. B. Wendt of the University of Louisville.

Tom R. Underwood, editor of the Herald, addressed the group at a banquet Friday night at the Lafayette hotel. In his address Underwood especially commented on the South's problems, stating that he hoped and believed the "era of carpet-bagery and the northern coal strikes would end at the same." Prof. D. V. Terrell, professor in the engineering college, presided at the banquet.

Saturday's closing session included an election of officers, several technical talks, and a tour of the Bluegrass stock farms.

New Officers

L. J. LaSalle, dean of the engineering college at Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge, was elected president for 1941-42. Other officers named included . . .

Daily 'Coke' Money Would Erect New Gym In Decade

By WALTER BREHM

If students desisted from drinking "cokes" for one week, a worthy student could be given a four-year college education and if the nickels were dropped into a chest for ten years, the school could build a field house.

ASTOUNDING as it may seem, it's true. In one week the Union grill, Tavern, and Dunn's, popular campus hangouts, alone use approximately 115 gallons of syrup. This doesn't include Rose street, Campus club, and downtown student retreats.

Each nickle coke, plain or fancy, uses one ounce of syrup. Relying on standard measures which place 16 ounces in a pint, and 8 pints in a gallon, there are 128 cokes in each gallon. At this rate, about 14,720 drinks are consumed in a week at the fountains, which probably satisfies about one-half of the student's thirst for cokes.

Deiving a little deeper into statistics, one finds that about $1,472 is spent weekly at five cents for 29,000 "pauses that refreshes". This amount is sufficient to send some student to college for four years, including room, board, tuition, and give him $50 pin money.

Judging from the figures, during the school year from September to June, the student body wraps itself around nearly 1,050,840 cokes. This "better-than-a-million" beverages reaches down into the purse for about $52,972 per year.

If students substituted water for the "tonic" and collected the nickles and dimes ten years, the University wouldn't have to ask Frankfort for a field house. We could build it ourselves.

Alpha Chi Sigma Initiates Five

Albert Rhoton, Spout Springs; Russell Hunt, Lexington; Charles Proctor, Lexington; Andrew Gyoker, Hammond, Ind.; and H. J. Rose, instructor in chemistry, were initiated into the Alpha Gamma chapter of Alpha Chi Sigma, national professional chemical fraternity Sunday morning between 1 a. m. and daylight at Kastle hall.

The initiation was followed by a banquet at 6:30 p. m. Sunday in the Phoenix hotel. Prof. W. R. Sutherland of the English department was the principle speaker.

Swimmers To Meet

A meeting of all freshman and varsity swimmers and aspirants for next year's swimming team will be held at 3:50 p.m. Friday in Room 204 of the Student Union building, Martin Schwartz announced yesterday.

Softball Enters Final Week; Sports Day Set For May 10

ATO's, Phi Delt's Vie For Greek Title; Indians Top Barbs

Two teams loomed as powerful contenders for the intramural softball crown as the season draws to a close this week with the ATOs of Division Two and the Phi Delt's of Division One riding the crests of five-game winning streaks.

Over in the Independent league, the Indians with their three wins against no losses appear to be the strongest with the Chemistry club and the Hound Dogs boasting two wins against one loss. The Dirty Sox have yet to win a game.

The actual winner of the intramural crown will be decided when the winners of the elimination tournament meet for the championship game as part of the intramural Sports day, May 10.

Events Scheduled

The Sports day program, sponsored by the Intramural department, and attempted for the first time on the campus, will include events in track, fencing, archery, basketball, badminton mixed doubles, ping pong singles, and the finals of the fraternity softball championship.

Badminton mixed doubles, ping pong singles, and the basketball tournament will not offer points for the winners, but have been included to give everyone the advantage or participating in the day's program.

Starting with the finals of the intramural track meet at 1:30 p. m., the day will be concluded with the championship softball game at 4 p. m.

Entries, for teams in the track meet will close at 6 p. m. May 1. Teams will consist of six men and the entry fee has been set at $1.50 per team.

May 1 is also the deadline for fencing and archery entries. In these events the entry fee will be 25 cents per man with two men composing a fencing team and four in archery. Awards will be given to the winner and runner up teams, and an additional award is offered for the high-scorer in archery.

Closing date for entries in badminton mixed doubles, basketball and the ping pong singles is May 5. As these are open events, no restriction will be placed on the number of entries.

Awards will be given to the three best contestants in the basketball event, and no entry fee will be charged.

Doubles Partners Matched

The winner and runner-up will receive awards in the mixed badminton doubles. Persons interested in this tournament who cannot find

GOLFERS WIN TWO MATCHES

Missouri, Cincy Succumb To Cats

The UK golf contingent turned in its peak performance Saturday, blanking the Missouri State Teachers college golfers 18-0 at the Ashland Country club.

The University of Cincinnati was a 12½ to 5½ victim of the UK linksmen Friday afternoon at Ashland. Granville Clark carded a sizzling 73 to lead in scoring.

Erma Allen fired a four-over-par 75 in the Missouri match to take low-scoring honors for the Wildcats, winning 3-0 over his opponent, Seabault, who soared to 91.

Close on Allen's heels was Meade Ferris, who carded a 76 and scored a 3-0 shutout against P. Falls' 88.

Lloyd Ramsey couldn't make his iron behave but nevertheless shot a 79 to beat Falls, Missouri, 3-0. Carlisle Myers, taking the place of Granville Clark, shot a creditable 80 to overcome his adversary, Thrower, and complete the shutout.

The Missouri match temporarily completed a successful home stand for the Wildcats, who journeyed to Bowling Green yesterday for a match with the Western Hilltoppers.

Pitkin Club Officers Will Be Elected

Members of Pitkin club will elect their 1941-42 officers at their regular meeting at noon, tomorrow, at the Maxwell street Presbyterian church.

Candidates are Evelyn Russell, George Shelly, and Joe Massie, president; Mary D. McChesney, William Shires, and Sylvia Siegel, vice-president; and Catherine Cooper, Helen Harrison, and Ellsworth Winn, secretary.

Armstrong To Speak

Watson Armstrong, instructor in agricultural education, will speak on "Leadership" today at the father and son banquet of the Future Farmers of America at New-castle.

Freshman Track Meet

The freshman track team will meet at 3:30 p. m. Wednesday on Stoll field for their meet with the Henry Clay high school squad, track coach Joe Rupert said yesterday.

Wildcats Dropped By Missouri State

Weakened by the loss of three key men, the University track team was steamrollered by heavily-favored Missouri State by a 92 to 41 score Saturday on Stoll field.

Decisively beaten in the field events, the Cat trackmen came back in the track features for their only three wins of the 15-event program.

Jim Hardin, veteran sprint man, annexed the 100-yard dash in 10 seconds flat, and Capt. John Montgomery romped home in the two-mile journey. The Blumens won the mile relay event on a forfeit.

Finishing the strength of the national-known Cape Girardeau team too much, the Cats rolled up most of their points in second and third places.

Tennessee's track men invaded the local clinders for a meet with Coach Joe Rupert's men Friday.
